Musicians who are to form the regimental band in the headquarters' company of the First Vermont regiment, V. N. G., to be located in Barre, met in the old city building Monday evening for their first rehearsal. Bandmaster Dunham of Northfield, who led the musicians in the rehearsal for several years, was in charge of the rehearsal and twenty-one members responded with instruments. A good deal of enthusiasm has been manifested in the plan to provide Barre with a military band and the regiment with a company of musicians who will honor the state National Guard with their presence in its ranks. The enrollment of men of military age who can play has gone apace with the enlistment of privates, etc., for the headquarters company and the outlook for the future is considered especially promising at this time. Three clarinets which were not in Northfield when fire destroyed most of the regimental instruments last fall, are being used by the local musicians and additional instruments have been promised. Rehearsals of the band will be held regularly.

Barre granite is specified and Barre granite manufacturers are selected to cut a notable contribution to the public memorials of New Hampshire which is to be dedicated in Lyme, N. H., next Decoration day in honor of the soldiers and sailors who died in the great war between the states. Hoyt & Milne have been awarded the contract for cutting, delivering and setting the monument and work on the bases, die and statue is under way already. All hammered work is specified and more than 1,000 letters will figure in the inscriptions. The bottom base is six feet and six inches square, the first die has a dimension of four feet, six inches on each side with a height of two feet, six inches. The second die is three feet, six inches square and five feet, two inches high. The cap will be four feet, two inches square and four feet high. The graven figure of an infantryman at "Parade Rest" is to surmount the cap. Barre granite will be used in carving the figure of the soldier, which is to be seven feet high. The town of Lyme is to have a soldiers' memorial mainly through the efforts of Mr. Dimick of Lyme Center.

Bowling fans, hungry for returns from the Nute-Poehler candle-pin match in Charlestown, Mass., last evening, waited almost in vain for news from the lanes, and when the expected service from the Western Union office did not materialize, Merlo Bros., at their academy on North Main street, got in touch with the bowling alley management by telephone. They learned that Poehler won the match by a margin of fourteen pins, the score standing 1,048 for Poehler to 1,034 for Nute at the end of the tenth and last string. Somewhere between the fifth and last frame, Nute closed in on his opponent, as it was stated that Poehler led by fifty-eight pins as the contestants limbered up for the sixth frame. Merlo brothers kept open house for local bowling fans and there was much disappointment on the part of the management as well as the fans when the string-by-string bulletins did not appear. Local rollers were pulling hard for the Barre boy and the news of his defeat, received around 11 o'clock, was not greatly relished. Had Nute been returned a winner, his claim on the New England candle-pin championship honor would have been considerably enhanced.
